A moveable party?
Zöld Pardon relocates but questions remain over safety... and legality
13 April 2012
Zöld Pardon, an open-air music club that occupied the green space near the approach ramp on the Buda end of Petőfi Bridge, was known for two things above all: big parties and massive rows. After a long tug of war involving petitions by residents in favour of closing it and competing petitions and demonstrations by...

PM berates EU over godless cosmos
13 April 2012
"We will soon see whether a country can distance itself from the secular, anti-family spirituality of the European Union, which considers the establishment of nations obsolete," PM Viktor Orbán said in an Easter interview with the Catholic weekly Új Ember. "We will see whether a country can build a future on values contrasting this view," ...

Poetry attack says far too much for furious Israel
16 April 2012
Israel has banned Germany's most prominent literary figure and Nobel Prize recipient from entering the country following the publication of a controversial poem condemning Israel's policies against Iran. Günter Grass' "What Must Be Said" appeared in Germany's Süddeutsche Zeitung newspaper last week, unleashing a storm of criticism in both countries. What

Monster catfish makes stew for a few
16 April 2012
Angler and professional cook Lajos Csendes no doubt reached for the catfish section of his cooking encyclopaedia after catching this 71kg beast at Kadarcsi lake in eastern Hungary's Hortobágy region on Wednesday. The 224cm-long fish, estimated to be 30 to 40 years old, was on the line for one hour and 10 minutes before it...
